Like all others who have written on this theme within the past quarter of a century, I must confess my indebtedness to the monumental work of Pasquale Villari, from which I have taken most of the extracts of sermons and letters which appear throughout the volume, though in many instances these have been carefully verified. It will be noticed that I have quoted frequently, and sometimes at length, from the sermons and other writings of Savonarola. This has been done with a purpose. The biography which means most to me personally is the one in which I hear the man's own voice, or read the words he himself penned. I am taking it for granted that my readers are like me in this respect. So instead of describing what Savonarola said, I have, whenever possible, let him say...
