During the first three years of the Wisconsin Dairy School, the theoretical part of the instruction in cheese making was given by a series of lectures and quizzes along with the practical work. All books treating on cheese making were either out of date, because of the rapid advance in knowledge on the subject, or were unfitted for use as text books in a school. Part I deals with the fermentations of milk and the process of making. Part II deals with the construction and operation of factories. Part III consists of questions which are answered in the text of parts I and II. The page on which the answer to the question may be found is indicated at the end of the question. Important Points are indicated by paragraph headings, and usually the answer can...
